Think Home Care!

Though people are living longer and healthier lives today, many find they need help maintaining their independence as they grow older. Most of this help is provided by families and friends who devote countless hours to their loved ones. But there are times when even the best family caregivers need assistance. In those situations, your local home care agency can be a true ally.

On any given day, home care agencies help tens of thousands of Bay Staters live safely – and better – at home. They accomplish this with a compassionate, professional approach that supports family and friends, respects patients' wishes and privacy, and increases independence and safety.

Health insurance and public programs like Medicare often pay for home care following hospitalizations or during acute illnesses, but do not typically cover chronic or supportive home care services. Private home care agencies, however, specialize in these situations.

The Home Care Alliance of Massachusetts is a nonprofit association of home care providers. We've designed this guide to help you understand the range of services available from private agencies and choose the one that best suits your needs.

First: Understand What Home Care Is

“Home care” encompasses a wide array of health and supportive services. Some people receive it after release from a hospital or skilled nursing facility. Others use it to supplement the services provided by an assisted living residence or retirement community. Still others use it to manage chronic illnesses or the gradual diminishment of physical or mental capabilities that come with aging. Depending on the situation, you may need help around-the-clock, once a day, or just for a few hours a week.

In all of these situations, good home care recognizes that each client requires an individualized care plan; services vary, but the objective is always to support independence and allow you to remain at home.

Second: Assess Your Needs

Before deciding which agency is right for you, you should determine what kind of care you need. Do you need skilled care provided by a registered nurse? How about hands-on personal care services, such as help with bathing and dressing? Are there cognitive or mental health issues that need to be addressed? Does your home need to be made safer and more accessible? How often, and for how long, do you expect to need care?

Agencies in this directory may offer all or some of the following services:

Adaptive Equipment, such as grab bars and elevated toilet seats, help people with limited mobility and strength perform daily activities.

Adult Day Health features onsite congregate care during the day

Alzheimer's/Dementia Program includes specialized services to meet the needs of people with these conditions

Appointment Escorts help clients get to health & medical appointments

Certified Hospice programs provide end-of-life care

Chore Services include tidying, cleaning, lifting, etc.

Companions alleviate loneliness and encourage socialization

Homemaking includes laundry, light cleaning, & meal prep

Intravenous Therapy is usually provided by a nurse with special training in IV use and medication administration

Live-in Aides provide around-the-clock assistance and reassurance

Maternal Child Health programs focus on new mothers and infants

Care Management by a licensed professional, often a social worker or nurse

Home Modification with ramps & widened doorways improves mobility

Medical Social Work coordinates services from other sources

Nursing provides skilled assistance with health & medical issues

Nutritionist programs are usually provided by registered dietitians who offer recommendations based on medical needs, etc.

Occupational Therapy improves fine motor skills

Psychiatric Nursing provides treatment for mental disorders

Personal Care/Home Health Aides provide assistance with toileting, bathing, transferring to/from bed, etc.

Personal Emergency Response Systems enable clients to contact medical help automatically via telephone in an emergency

Physical Therapy improves strength & mobility

Private Duty Nursing provides nursing care for more than 2 hours at a time for patients who require close, constant monitoring

Respiratory Therapy addresses breathing disorders

Speech & Language Therapy improves communication skills

Staffing provides subcontracted workers for nursing homes

Telehealth Monitoring uses telephone technology to help individuals manage their own care

Transportation helps clients get to regular appointments

Home care agencies have staff with expertise in assessing patient needs and developing plans of care, usually at no charge. These experienced professionals can also help you negotiate the maze of care resources and effectively communicate your needs to physicians, hospital staff, and nursing home managers. They can also help emotionally resistant clients understand and accept services. Their goal is to develop a service plan that offers you the greatest degree of independence, safety, and comfort.

Depending on the scope of need, families may also want to work with an independent geriatric care manager. GCMs are trained professionals – most often nurses or social workers – who can help assess needs, find resources, and monitor services. You can find a list of GCMs at www.gcmnewengland.org.

The state's Aging Service Access Point (ASAP) network is also a good resource. ASAPs are publicly-funded, local agencies that provide information and referrals for a range of elder services. You can find the ASAP nearest you by calling (800) AGE-INFO or visiting www.800ageinfo.com/map.

Third: Decide Which Agencies to Call

There are many types of home care providers and it can be confusing to sort through them. This directory lists two types of agencies: Medicare/Medicaid Certified, and Private Service Agencies. Both types directly employ and supervise their workers, and screen them through reference and criminal background checks. They pay workers' compensation insurance and payroll taxes, and carry professional and general liability insurance to protect you from worker injury or error. If a worker is sick, they can arrange for a replacement.

Medicare/Medicaid Certified home care agencies have met federal requirements for patient care and management. Their certification allows them to receive reimbursement from Medicare, Medicaid, and other insurers. They are subject to regular surveys by the Massachusetts Department of Public Health for compliance with federal requirements concerning training, supervision, and clinical management. All of the certified agencies in this guide also accept private money.

Private Service home care agencies provide a wide range of medical and non-medical services, from nursing, to homemakers and just about anything else needed to help people remain in their homes. Services vary, so be sure the agency you pick meets your needs. Medicare and Medicaid will not pay for services provided by non-certified agencies, but some third-party payers – including most long term care insurers – will.

Placement agencies and independent workers also provide home care in Massachusetts, often for less money than agencies that directly employ their workers. Though many of these agencies are reputable and provide excellent service, they require more work on the client's part and carry a higher risk. Some placement agencies provide only limited orientation, supervision, or back-up for sick workers. When hiring an independent worker, you become his or her legal employer and are responsible for checking references, training, scheduling, payroll taxes, and insurances. Also, homeowner's insurance generally does not cover injuries to individuals employed in your home.

Because of the risks and responsibilities involved in using placement agencies or independent workers, the Alliance recommends that families obtain home care services from agencies that directly employ their workers. We do not list placement agencies or independent workers in this guide.

Fourth: Interview Agencies

When selecting a home care provider, ask questions; any reputable agency will give you clear answers. Doctors and hospital social workers can also be good sources of information, but the choice is up to you.

The following checklist is a good starting point to help you "interview" agencies to find the one that best meets your needs:

- Is the agency a member of the Home Care Alliance of MA? (Alliance members adhere to a strict Code of Business Ethics, so you can be confident in the care you receive.)
- Is the agency certified or accredited? This is required if the care is covered by Medicare, Medicaid, or many other insurances.
- Does the agency have literature describing its services, fees, and billing process?

- Does the agency work with the client and family to develop a written plan of care or service contract? Is it periodically updated?*
- Does the agency directly employ its workers or are they considered independent contractors? (Who pays the worker?)*
- Does the agency pay workers' compensation insurance and payroll taxes for its workers?*
- Does the agency provide a written explanation of your rights?*
- Does the agency educate family members about the care they provide?*
- Are agency caregivers and supervisors – including backup caregivers – available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week?*
- How does the agency investigate complaints and/or resolve conflicts between agency staff and clients?*
- Does the agency have professional & general liability insurance?*
- Will the agency provide a list of references?*
- Does the agency require a minimum number of hours per visit?*

Fifth: Explore Payment Options

Insurance providers will only reimburse home care services under certain conditions. For example, Medicare only pays for home care when 1) the client cannot leave the home without physical assistance, 2) is under a physician's care, and 3) requires nursing or therapy services provided by a Medicare-certified agency.

The Massachusetts Home Care program provides state-funded supportive services to elders and disabled individuals who meet certain guidelines. These non-medical, supportive services enable frail elders to remain in their homes and target those at risk of needing nursing home care. These services can be accessed locally through one of the Aging Service Access Points (ASAPs) mentioned earlier.

Commercial health insurance policies typically cover some home care services when a person is recovering from surgery or illness, though benefits vary from plan to plan. Commercial insurers generally pay for medical care in the home with a cost-sharing provision. Check with your insurer's customer service department to get details on coverage requirements, benefits, co-payments, and deductibles.

Long-term care insurance policies almost always cover home care services as an alternative to nursing homes. The home care benefits under these policies are usually capped at a certain dollar level per day, week, or month. Home care benefits vary greatly among plans, so check your policy.

Paying privately for home care services can be a preferred and affordable option. All of the agencies listed in this directory will work with you to coordinate arrangements and billing. Whatever your home care needs, our member agencies can offer flexibility, quality, and – most of all – peace of mind.
